

Alexei Tolstoy?

The Essex Serpent

classmate

Date _____
Page _____

Literature :-

What is literature?

in this class

Stories? Poetry? Plays? Creative Writing?

①

Clearly foregrounds that is fiction

→ Think critically, interpretively, creatively and imaginatively.

What do literary scholars do?

↳ interpret literature and try to decipher what it means → human creative expression

But there is no single correct interpretation of any work of literature. All of us have our own interpretation

How should one study a literary text?

Fiction allows you to imagine other worlds, allows us to step into other's shoes, allows access to experiences that we will never experience directly. This is the value of fiction

~~Even~~ Not all Creative Writing is literature

Only those that endure the test of time.

↳ What enduring value? Who decides what is literature?

↳ Is a historical construct

→ Canon of literature is decided by the rich & powerful people of society over time.
collection of (historic) works.

↳

How to study Literature?

- 1) What is written?
- 2) How is it written?
- 3) What are the different ways in which it can be read?
- 4) What are its possibilities?

Human Conditions:- Everything that goes into being human.
All aspects of human life:- The aspirations, the actions, the sufferings, the thoughts etc.

Meaning of a literary text is incomplete without the reader.
Each reader invests a text with meaning.

↳ Based by the environment from which the reader arises-

↳ Str. of interpretation is dependent on what is made available / possible in by the text.

Ask Questions of the Text:-

- i) What does the title mean? What does it signify?
- ii) Why are some words in italics? (House speak)
- iii) Where ~~are~~ ^{have} the people gone?
- iv) What is special / different about this day?
- v) What is the personality of the house?
- vi) Is it relevant? What values is it conveying?

Story is a note of caution.

Every story is set in some socio-economical situation or environment, as said in History.

Baal Baal:- Initially a god of bounty & harvest, but later the bringer of chaos. The reference is suggestive.

that chaos has been unleashed.

The poem is ~~poet~~ prophetic? The vision of Teasdale came true.

Also it's a random choice by the machine, ~~how does it~~ which affects the prophetic nature of its appearance.

Search and Observe for Patterns:-

Sing-Song Repetition ← desperation, obsession quality, mechanical paranoia

The abundance of words for sound & touch ← throws into sharp contrast about the absence of humor

House as a sentient entity ← old maidenly preoccupation with self protection. → just like how an old person wants to remain pristine and keep trying to search for threats

↑
Language of destr. House also has an existential crisis when it uses metaphors tries waking people up and similes from nature.

The author and the narrator are disjoint entities.

3rd person, detached, unintrusive, reportage (?) [reporting], economical
But who is narrating? B. O

Language:-

Imagery:- Includes onomatopoeia

Story, plot and narration:-

Vladimir Propp and Viktor Shklovsky

Fabula:- Imagined world, world building, logic of events, the material, story.

Emotional arc of those who populate the world.

Syuzhet:- Seq. of events and actions that allow a story to play out. The way the fabula is organised, synchronous and asynchronous (flash backs and fast forwards)

Narration:- The way the fabula is told (sarcastic, ironic, funny, epic). Who is telling the story, can we identify them, are we told everything?

Textual narration works in multiple level

Gives information from a certain vantage point, with extra control over the flow.

Literariness is the unique quality created by each pairing of a Fabula and a Syuzhet.

Fading value is worse than the mediocre.

Cannot disturb the construction of a literary work without affecting the connotation/denotation.

Disturbing changes the narration, fabula and syuzhet

The quality of literariness is the ability to create an image and imbue it with anticipation.

accumulation

Detailed eye of history ← collection of historical occurrences

Time, place and actors are not specified.

Winning = People Making Money, not ending the war.

The narration is guiding us away from being sympathetic to the suit.

Fight is against the machine, against the top 1% of the population.

The oligarchy is omnipresent, across all fields.

① Ishaan and his mum are the only true characters.

Speculation fiction:- Built on hypothesising. Imaginative, but in the realm of possibilities.

How is the fabula built?

Time, place, people, characterization of people etc.

② Ouelas :- Starts out as 3rd person

But not omniscient.

The narrator is building the fabula, rather than describing the fabula.

The usage of second person pronoun implicates the reader premise of the narrativity of the narration

Narration moves from - camera looking at the scene to an agreement b/w the narrator and the reader.

Making facts stand independently is uneasy for humans.

Existential question:- Logic of existence, reason for existence?

Slippage b/w 3rd & 2nd person narrators produces an effect which produces a commentary

Onelec has a structure of a fable. It has a time and place, but there is no ~~the~~ human historical time or place

Has more comprehensive world building. Provides an auditory POV. ~~Unlike~~ counters both capitalism & communism.

The shift happens at the desc of what how they do not need stock exchange etc.

This allows her to comment on what is pain.

Artists cannot leave happiness alone. Empathy only when pain, happiness only when suffering etc.

But pain is common and one must not romanticise it

We need evil and pain to be of a specific kind for it to be interesting. This is our failing, and instead, we should be involved been in every instance of pain & suffering.

Commentary:- Narration + Interpretation

p) preference of one ~~it~~ over the other, not just picking.

Happiness:- Just discrimination of what we need, what we need but is destructive and what is generally bad.

The choice of it to describe the child, othering, makes it subhuman.